

Candace Kelley, J.D.

Biography

Candace is an Emmy-nominated reporter, commentator, host, producer, and law professor who has covered headlining news, legal, and pop-culture stories for more than two decades. She is widely respected for making the law accessible, teaching through real cases, plain language, and lived-experience analysis that helps audiences understand how the system actually works. From her early career at Court TV to covering the nation's most closely watched trials, Candace blends legal rigor with cultural fluency, appearing across major U.S. and international media while bringing clarity and context to complex legal issues.
